Iowa Hall of Pride

The Iowa Hall of Pride is a 26,000 square foot interactive exhibit experience to honor and inspire Iowa citizens by showcasing family, community, and schools. The guiding concept is the celebration of individual achievement through extracurricular events and athletics. The museum is sponsored by the Iowa High School Athletic Association (IHSAA). Synthesis designed 26 different interactive exhibits, theaters, and other components. We worked in conjunction with OPN Architects and The Weitz Company, construction managers. It was our goal to maintain graphic standards that carry seamlessly across architecture, exhibitry, multi-media, and environmental graphics. The project is located within the Iowa Events Center in downtown Des Moines. The Iowa Hall of Pride opened February 2005.

SynthesisDesign, LLC. Is a professional design firm furnishing creative solutions in architecture, interior design, exhibitry, millwork, and fixture design. Based in Haddonfield, New Jersey, the firm is structured to interact with artists, artisans, designers, and production groups to ensure the realization of a cohesive design ideology in each project it undertakes. Founded in 1994, the firm continues to put its philosophy into practice on various museum, retail, trade show, and residential projects.

The Des Moines Higher Education Collaborative Center

The Des Moines Higher Education Collaborative is central Iowa's premier professional development and higher learning organization. The Collaborative embraces a clear and focused mission - to elevate the educational attainment of central Iowa's workforce. The Collaborative accomplishes its mission through broad professional development programming that emphasizes "best business practices" and lifelong learning.

DMHEC's administrative offices are located in the heart of downtown Des Moines at 1200 Grand Avenue at the John and Mary Pappajohn Education Center. The Center is the hub for educational opportunities offered by our collaborating institutions. The Collaborative administration is also joined at the Pappajohn Center by its marquee programs.

Des Moines Public Library

The new Central Library is part of the Gateway West Park development in downtown Des Moines. The building is designed to blend into the surrounding park setting so it becomes "a library within a park" and "a park within the library." The new Central Library has an exterior skin of copper mesh encased in glass. The exterior is specially designed to protect library materials from ultraviolet rays, reduce glare for computer users, and block the heat before it enters the building. The building's organic shape will feature three distinct wings in a two-story design with each wing offering different elements to the public. Improvements to be offered in the new Central Library will include:

- A teen center and study rooms
- A special Children's Department with separate story hour and craft room with enough space for visits by the Downtown School and other schools
- A computer training classroom for customers wishing to learn how to use the library's catalog and databases, as well as for staff training.
- Increased access to the Internet, hook-ups for laptop computers, and wireless network.
- A café
- An inviting, park-link setting

IAC Membership We need you! Please plan to join us!

The Iowa Association for Communication Technology (IAC) is an organization of media professionals from all over the state of Iowa. Our members represent all facets of media production, from administrators, to video producers, to multimedia designers. We enjoy members from corporate, educational, medical, and government organizations.

The purpose of this Association is to provide a forum for and support to providers of communication technology services in Iowa institutions, businesses, and other agencies involved in education and training.

A goal of the IAC Association is to provide access to information about communication technology, information technology, and instructional media through the use of conferences, tours and networking opportunities.

Annual dues of $15 entitle members to join with others at two conferences a year, access to the IAC WWW site, and a host of new friends and contacts in communications technology.

Check out the IAC WWW site: www.iact-iowa.org
The IAC WWW site hosts:

- a list of current members
- information about the board of directors
- conference information
- IAC ByLaws
- links to communications technology websites
- plus a host of additional information of interest to communication technologists
